stay forever young

How can you achieve that "I've just been to the spa" glow all the time? It's as simple as using aromatic and botanical formulations from Kelly's Spa at the Mission Inn in Riverside. Guests flock to the hotel's spa for its Tuscany-inspired treatments using herbs and oils originating in Italy. Now, Kelly's Fountain of Youth Collection can be purchased at the spa ([951] 341-6725) as well as at www.kellysspa.com. For your skincare routine, consider using products such as the Gentle Cleansing Gel ($33), which cleans and moisturizes; Chamomile Fluid Cleansing Cream ($33) that removes makeup and rejuvenates skin; and Ginseng Astringent Toner ($40), a freshener that firms the skin with glycolic acid. Then boost skin texture with Revitalizing Cream ($40) with live yeast coli derivative to offset skin damage and rejuvenates skin; and Body Hydrating Milk ($32), rich in natural oils and minerals, which restore skin to make it look radiant. Though Ponce de Leon spent his whole life searching for the Fountain of Youth, it's reassuring to know that the Fountain of Youth Collection is far easier to attain.

put the spin on has-been skin

For faces that have more lines than a Shakespearean play, the Zia Natural Microdermabrasion System is a quick and effective treatment that resurfaces skin in the privacy of your home. The three-step procedure starts with the microdermabrasion scrub with ginseng root and magnesium oxide crystals that work in conjunction with the microdermabrasion applicator to exfoliate the skin. Then, skin-balancing tonic is applied to calm skin and restore pH balance. And, finally, moisture infusion serum, with CoQ10, stimulates collagen production to diminish wrinkles. The end result: firmer and more even-toned skin. Zia uses pure, paraben-free ingredients in its skin-care system, which can be purchased at Whole Foods locations, www.zianatural.com and (800) 334-SKIN. The suggested retail price is $79.95.
